

Steve Landis

Co-Founder, Head of Business Development

Steve has worked in the corporate world for many years in various management roles. He held positions at The Walt Disney Company; at a NASDAQ listed financial services company; and at a national US marketing agency. He has consulted for some of the best-known firms in entertainment and financial services like Time Warner, Citibank and Barclays Bank. With those experiences he learned how to work with and achieve the goals of clients with high expectations.

For 15 years Steve ran his own real estate firm in California (also with his wife Sue). Steve's combination of corporate and entrepreneurial management experience lends itself well to helping people gain a competitive advantage through improved skills and effective collaboration.

As Senior Vice President of MemberWorks Inc.

"Steve is one of those individuals who has the ability to demonstrate leadership across the miles. What made the working relationship successful was trust in getting things done. I thank Steve for helping me through some important professional lessons."

As Broker at Landis Luxury Homes

"We can recommend Steve without reservation and can attest to his market knowledge, process expertise, and most importantly, the integrity with which he operates."

Steve has a number of certifications and qualifications that support his work:

- Certified REACH Ecosystem Practitioner (series of psychometric tools)
- Masters Degree in Business Administration, Information Systems
- Bachelors Degree in Anthropology, University of California, Santa Barbara
- Certified Negotiation Expert - Real Estate Negotiation Institute
